AustralianSuper – Providing flexible payment options for employers

AustralianSuper offers employers flexibility with six ways to pay superannuation contributions:

Electronic Funds Transfer	Employers can automatically transfer funds to a dedicated AustralianSuper bank account.
Cheque	We bank all cheques on the day of receipt when employers send the relevant contribution advice (or reference number) and their employer number. Cheques should be made payable to AustralianSuper.
Direct debit	Direct debit allows AustralianSuper to automatically deduct the required monthly amount from the employer's bank, building society or credit union account once we receive their completed contribution advice.
BPAY®	Using BPAY®, employers can pay superannuation contributions through their bank, credit union or building society.
POSTbillpay®	Employers can make POSTbillpay® payments by phone or over the counter at around 4,500 post offices in Australia.
In person at an AustralianSuper Administration Office	AustralianSuper has a front counter service available in each capital city (except Darwin) where employers can pay by either cheque or cash.

- Employers can change their payment method at any time.
- The Direct Debit option is only available to employers who have registered to submit their contributions via AustralianSuper Online. Electronic Funds Transfer also requires registration before you can transfer the contributions electronically from your nominated bank account directly into the Fund's account.
- The postal address for payments, contributions or payment queries is AustralianSuper, PO Box 2468 Kent Town SA 5071.
