About AustralianSuper

Your super obligations

As an employer, you're legally required to pay a minimum level of super which is known as the Super Guarantee (SG). From 1 July 2024 to 30 June 2025 the SG rate is 11.5% of your employee's before-tax wage, if they are 18 years or older.

If your employee is under 18, they must also have worked at least 30 hours in a week in that calendar month to be eligible for super, regardless of how much you pay them.

The SG rate will increase to 12% on 1 July 2025.

Pay super on time

Your super payments must be paid into an eligible super fund by quarterly payment deadlines although many businesses choose to pay more frequently.

Factoring in the time it takes for super payments to be processed and deposited is crucial. Keep in mind your obligation as an employer is only met once your employee's super fund has received the payment, and not simply when you transfer the funds to the clearing house. With QuickSuper<sup>1</sup> via AustralianSuper, this takes 1–2 banking days.

If you don't meet the SG contribution deadline, you may be liable to pay the ATO's Super Guarantee Charge, which is made up of:

- the SG shortfall amounts
- interest on the outstanding amount, and
- an administration fee.

For more information, visit ato.gov.au

If you need a reminder to pay, we've got your back, with quarterly payment reminders before the due dates listed in the table below.

Super due dates

Financial year quarters	Payment period dates	ATO legislative due date
Quarter 1	1 July to 30 September	28 October
Quarter 2	1 October to 31 December	28 January
Quarter 3	1 January to 31 March	28 April
Quarter 4	1 April to 30 June	28 July

Payday super is coming

The government had announced that from 1 July 2026, employers will be required to pay their employees' super at the same time as their salary and wages. This is being referred to as 'payday super'.

Use an online payment solution

Employers are required to use a compliant clearing house to pay super to employees.

If you don't have a clearing house, AustralianSuper offers QuickSuper<sup>1</sup> free of charge to registered employers. Distributing super to different super funds is also covered, so employers only need to make one payment. QuickSuper does the rest<sup>1</sup>.

Give your employees choice

When a new employee starts and is eligible to choose their own super fund, you need to give them a Standard Choice form within 28 days of their start date. When providing information to employees around their choice of fund, you can:

- provide information, including documents relating to superannuation
- refer employees to government websites, such as the YourSuper comparison tool
- refer employees to a licensed financial adviser.

If your employee makes a super choice, it can be processed by your HR/payroll team.

If your new starter doesn't choose a super fund when they start employment, you'll need to check whether they have a stapled fund with the ATO.

To identify the super fund your new starter is stapled to, refer to ato.gov.au/businesses-and-organisations/super-for-employers for details.

If they have a stapled fund, you'll need to pay their super into it. If they don't, you can pay super into your business's default fund or the fund named in the employee's Enterprise Bargaining Agreement (EBA).

Choose a default fund for your business

To pay your employees' super, you'll need a default super fund in place if your employees don't choose one and don't have a stapled fund.

Choose a fund that works for you and your employees.
