Providing proof of your identity

You can prove your identity (ID) in one of two ways:

Electronic verification

Go to Page 2

OR

Providing copies of certified physical ID documents

Follow steps 1-4 below

How to certify physical copies of your ID:

1. Photocopy both sides of your ID (as applicable):

   The photocopy should:
   › be easy to read
   › show your current ID in full (expired ID won't be accepted)
   › have your current residential address on it.

   See ‘Proof of ID for certified documents’ on page 2 for acceptable forms of ID.

2. Take your photocopied and physical ID to someone who can certify your ID:

   A police officer

   A medical practitioner

   A post office employee*

3. Get them to certify your ID:

   Stamp or write the certification
   “I certify that this document is a true copy of the original sighted by me...”

4. Send copies of your certified ID to us:

   GPO Box 1901, MELBOURNE VIC 3001

   via our website at australiansuper.com/email

* Australia Post charges a fee for each photocopy you need to get certified. The certifier must be a permanent employee of Australia Post with at least two years of continuous service.

The ID documents you submit must be current and not expired. If using your driver’s licence, you will need to copy both sides. Bills or bank statements must have the same residential address as your AustralianSuper account. SMSF bank statements must have the same address as the registered SMSF. AustralianSuper reserves the right to request additional certified identification documents where required.

Electronic verification

The easiest way to verify your identity is electronically. If electronic verification is available (refer to the table above), simply complete the relevant form and provide the details of any TWO of the following documents where specified:

- Passport
- Driver’s licence
- Medicare card

We’ll check your details against a database to verify your identity. You won’t need to provide physical copies unless we’re unable to verify your details against the database.

This option isn’t available if you want to change the bank account for your account-based pension payments.

Other ways to prove your identity

If you don’t have a driver’s licence or passport you will need to have two documents physically certified (see page 1):

One of these:

- birth certificate or birth extract
- citizenship certificate issued by the Commonwealth, or
- pension card issued by Centrelink that entitles a person to financial benefits.

And one of these:

- a letter from Centrelink regarding a government assistance payment (less than 12 months old)
- Australian Taxation Office notice of assessment (less than 12 months old), or
- rates notice (less than 12 months old).

All ID should show your name and residential address.

Can’t get to a post office or police station?
These other people are allowed to certify documents:
- a finance company officer with two or more years of continuous service (with one or more finance companies)
- a Financial Adviser or Financial Planner
- a notary public officer*
- a registrar or deputy registrar of a court*
- a Justice of the Peace*
- a person enrolled on the roll of a State or Territory Supreme Court or the High Court of Australia, as a legal practitioner
- an Australian consular officer or an Australian diplomatic officer*
- a judge of a court*
- a magistrate*
- a Chief Executive Officer of a Commonwealth court, or
- a Pharmacist, Dentist or Optometrist.

Signing for others and name changes
If you’re signing for others or have changed your name, you’ll also need to provide a certified copy of a linking document. Linking documents for name changes include a marriage certificate, deed poll or change of name certificate. Linking documents for signing on someone else's behalf include a Power of Attorney or guardianship papers.
