What's the best way to add to your super?

This depends on your income and the tax you pay. Let's look at the examples of Michael and Maria.

Michael adds to super, saves tax and gets a bonus Government co-contribution

30-year-old Michael earns $40,000 a year. By giving up $50 a fortnight (as a $36 salary sacrifice and $27 after-tax contribution), Michael saves $170 tax and adds an extra $1,850 into super a year. For $100 a fortnight (as a $114 salary sacrifice and $27 after-tax contribution), Michael saves $540 tax and adds an extra $3,570 to his super a year. Michael also receives a $350 Government co-contribution bonus in both cases.

Maria is better off making just salary sacrifice (before-tax) contributions

50-year-old Maria earns $65,000 a year. She won't get the Government co-contribution, but by giving up $50 a fortnight (as a $36 salary sacrifice and $27 after-tax contribution), she saves $170 tax and adds an extra $1,850 into super a year. And by giving up $100 a fortnight (as a $114 salary sacrifice and $27 after-tax contribution), Maria saves $540 tax and adds an extra $3,450 more into super a year.

This case study is provided for illustration purposes only and is not a representation of the actual benefits received or fees and costs that may be incurred. Key assumptions: Contributions tax 15%, SG 9.5%, individual tax rate 32.5% (plus the Medicare levy and low income tax offset if applicable). Total contributions to super include any applicable low-income super contribution. Results have been rounded to the nearest $10.
What are the contribution limits and what tax do you pay?

The Government limits the amounts you can contribute to super. If you go over the limits, you may pay extra tax.

Catch up on Concessional Contributions

From 1 July 2018 if you have a total superannuation balance of less than $500,000 on 30 June of the previous financial year (this includes your AustralianSuper account and other super accounts held in your name), you may be entitled to contribute more than the general concessional contributions cap and make additional concessional contributions to catch up where you haven’t previously used your full before-tax contributions cap (currently $25,000 pa).

The first year you will be entitled to carry forward unused before-tax contributions is the 2019-20 financial year. Unused amounts are available for a maximum of five years, and after this period will expire.

Low Income Super Tax Offset

If you’re eligible and earn up to $37,000, the government will refund 15% of your total before-tax contributions made by you or your employer, up to a maximum of $500 pa.

If you’re eligible, the amount will automatically be calculated by the ATO and deposited into your super account each year.

Over 60?

If you’re over 60, a Transition to Retirement strategy could help you save on tax and boost your super.
