

Super contribution limits

The Government limits the amount you can contribute to super, as well as the tax benefits available.

What types of contributions can you make?

A contribution is just a sum of money that you add to your super. You can add to super in two ways:

Before-tax includes Superannuation Guarantee (SG), before-tax employee (salary sacrifice), extra employer and tax-deductible personal contributions. These are also called 'concessional' contributions.

After-tax includes spouse contributions, after-tax employee and non-deductible personal contributions. These are also called 'non-concessional' contributions and are made from your after-tax, take-home pay.

From 1 July 2017, anyone under 65 (and individuals aged 65 - 74 who meet the work test) can claim a tax deduction for personal contributions made into super, not just the self-employed.

Remember to tell us your TFN

To get the benefit of super tax savings or be eligible for the Government co-contribution, you must give us your Tax File Number (TFN).

If you don't give us your TFN, you'll pay 47% tax (including the Medicare levy).

What are the contribution limits and what tax do you pay?

The Government limits the amounts you can contribute to super. If you go over the limits, you may pay extra tax.

Type of contribution	Tax rate	Details
Before-tax (concessional), earning less than $250,000 a year These are mainly employer contributions, salary sacrifice contributions and personal contributions claimed as a tax deduction.	15%	A $25,000 limit applies to contributions made from your before tax income. Your before-tax contributions are taxed at 15% if you earn less than $250,000 a year. Any amounts over the $25,000 limit will be taxed at your marginal tax rate*, less a tax offset of 15% (because you have already paid tax on this money), plus an interest charge. You can choose to withdraw up to 85% of excess contributions, which won't count towards your after-tax limit but will be taxed at your marginal tax rate*, plus an interest charge. Any excess before-tax contributions not released count towards your after-tax contributions cap.
Before-tax (concessional), earning more than $250,000 a year These are mainly employer contributions, salary sacrifice contributions and personal contributions claimed as a tax deduction.	30%	A $25,000 limit applies to contributions made from your before tax income. Your before-tax contributions are taxed at 30% if you earn more than $250,000 a year. Any amounts over the $25,000 limit will be taxed at your marginal tax rate*, less a tax offset of 15% (because you have already paid tax on this money), plus an interest charge. You can choose to withdraw up to 85% of excess contributions, which won't count towards your after-tax limit but will be taxed at your marginal tax rate*, plus an interest charge. Any excess before-tax contributions not released count towards your after-tax contributions cap.
After-tax (non-concessional) These are typically extra, voluntary contributions you make from after-tax money, including spouse contributions. You must give us your Tax File Number before we can accept after-tax contributions	No tax payable up to allowable limits	If you have $1.6m or more in your super account, you can't make after-tax contributions. A $100,000 limit applies to contributions made from after tax sources. No tax is payable on amounts up to $100,000 a year (or $300,000 over three years if certain conditions are met. The three-year period automatically starts from the first year that you add more than $100,000 after tax to your super). Any amounts over this limit will be taxed at 47%†, unless you ask your fund to release the amounts over the limit. The associated earnings withdrawn are taxed at your marginal tax rate. You will also be entitled to a 15% non-refundable tax offset of the associated earnings included in your assessable income. If you choose not to withdraw your excess after-tax contributions, they will remain in your super account and the excess will be taxed at 47%†.
Government co-contribution	No tax payable	To be eligible for a Government co-contribution, you need to add to your super after tax and earn less than $51,813‡. The co-contribution itself is not taxable either when it goes into your super, or when you withdraw your super. Further eligibility criteria apply. * Plus Medicare levy.

† Includes Medicare levy.

‡ You should consider your debt levels before adding to your super.

Once you reach age 65, to add to your super yourself, you will need to work at least 40 hours in 30 consecutive days in the financial year you wish to contribute. Once you reach age 75, you can't add to your super yourself, although you may still receive employer SG and Award payments if you're eligible.
